Preparing for an endless life, level #1

Session One was very encouraging, it gave me a small glimpse of the other side; which is the spirit realm. Especially how the Son of God is the one that lights up everything in heaven. Now and then, it helps to hear lectures like this, I need to hear more sermons like this sometimes because the weight of this fallen world, has a way of depressing the saints to the point of forgetting about an afterlife sometimes. Therefore, I appreciate Dr. Kevin Zadai explaining his experience in eternity.

Although I heard of his death too many times in past lectures, it was good to hear more about the parallel of the eternal realm that is around us, including the topic of time travel, and how Jesus can take us back in time.

This course had many good teachings about faith, and praying for things that already exist, such as a fallen flashlight in a dark cave. I liked the metaphor for grasping things that are not seen while knowing that they exist because you can think of it before you see it. You have to take hold of it, knowing that it's yours, and once you take hold of it, you never let go until it comes into this natural realm.

There were many important topics associated with The Gospel of John chapter four as well, such as the Samaritan woman, who thought of Jesus as being on the same level as a fortune teller, or a psychic, there were other topics that covered our need for boundaries with popular ministers that participate in Christian seances. Not only did “Derick Prince” cover the dangers of agreeing with false prophets out in the world, but I think “John Paul Jackson” in his life covered the same dangers in his past sermons too. Because we need to have a mindset that we are only tuned into God's truth.

The leadership at my own Christian Evangelical Church has done a terrible job in teaching the congregation real spiritual warfare, just on the first level of taking your thoughts captive while never having any knowledge of the truth in the second level concerning how the enemy attacks a person in their soul, (in their mind, will and emotions). Fortunately, Brother Apostle Peter said, "judgment must begin at the house of God" (Reference 1 Peter 4:17).
